FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Nex-Tech Continues Long Tradition of Promoting From Within

Employee growth and opportunity integral to people-focused company culture.

LENORA, Kan., April 21, 2021—Nex-Tech, a leader in business technology solutions and connectivity, announced today the internal promotions of Amber Chestnut, Jeremy Rumback, Joel Schneider, Shannon Wylie and Lindsay Brinker.

A key element of the Nex-Tech Way is growth. As a company, we grow to ensure delivery of the best and freshest technology to our customers. As an employer, we know employees are our greatest asset and providing opportunities for career growth within the organization not only increases productivity, it deepens the loyalty we share as a company toward serving our communities.

MEET OUR TEAM:

Amber Chestnut, Nex-Tech Help Desk Service and Provisioning Supervisor says, “Nex-Tech has given me the opportunity to work for an amazing local company. It’s a rewarding career to lead and collaborate with such an outstanding group of people.”

Amber started her career with Nex-Tech in 2002 as a Service Order Assistant, advancing in the department over the years. Amber and family reside in Phillipsburg. She enjoys supporting her boys in sports and other activities, loves cooking, kayaking, and time at the lake.

Jeremy Rumback, Engineering Supervisor Field Services says of his new position, “I am excited to take on the challenges and opportunities that this new role brings. The engineering department has a talented group of individuals and I look forward to leading them and being successful in the years to come.”

Jeremy and family live north of New Almelo, KS. He is a member of the Lenora Fire Department and the New Almelo Knights of Columbus, enjoys spending time with family, attending his children’s activities, and exploring the outdoors.

Joel Schneider, Network Operations Supervisor says, “Nex-Tech is a great place to work. I started with the company in 2005 as a Help Desk Technician while studying at Fort Hays State University. I stayed because over the years, new challenges and opportunities provided the career path to where I am now. It’s great to establish some roots and grow within the same company.”

Joel and his family live in Hays. He looks forward to time with family and friends.

Shannon Wylie, Advertising Solutions Supervisor says, “I was excited to have an opportunity to return to Nex-Tech in a leadership role on the team I had previously been a part of. Our Advertising Solutions Team, previously the Marketing Department, is a creative group that constantly is evolving and bringing new concepts to Nex-Tech and our clients.”

After spending almost 8 years away from Hays, Shannon and her husband and are glad to be back in a smaller town to raise their boys near family and friends. Shannon is currently a member of the Hays Young Professionals, a Leadership Hays participant, and enjoys keeping busy with her children’s sports and other activities.

Lindsay Brinker, Customer Sales Supervisor says, “I can proudly say that Nex-Tech really does provide the best customer service around. That can be attributed to the people we employ and our amazing customer sales staff. I’m humbled and excited for the opportunity to help lead this exceptional group of individuals.”

Lindsay joined Nex-Tech in 2018 as a Customer Solutions Specialist in Courtland and Graphic Designer for Ad Solutions. Beloit is home for Lindsay and family, where she enjoys family time, raising her children, spending time at the lake camping and partaking in watersports, and working on home improvement projects or remodels. She is an alumna of Leadership Mitchell County, and a member of the Beloit Cassiopeia Club.
